SUMMARY

Computer Engineering student at Sapienza University of Rome, currently on an Erasmus+ exchange at TU Delft. Front-end oriented web developer (Next.js, TypeScript, Tailwind CSS) with a solid base in algorithms, systems programming and control theory, and an interest in cybersecurity and AI. Planning an M.Sc. in Control Engineering. Looking for a remote/hybrid role that fits alongside my studies; flexible on role and open to learning new stacks.

EDUCATION

B.Sc. in Computer Engineering — Sapienza University of Rome — Expected summer 2027

- Coursework: Algorithms & Data Structures, Operating Systems & Computer Networks, Fundamentals of AI, Control Systems, Security, Databases (SQL), C and x86 assembly programming

Erasmus+ Exchange — TU Delft, Faculty of Technology, Policy & Management — Sep 2026 – Feb 2027

- Coursework: Cyber Crime Science; Cybersecurity: Actors, Incentives & Interventions; Machine Learning for Socio-technical Systems; Ethics of AI; Game Theory and Strategic Decision Making

PROJECTS

Tulos — Next.js e-commerce application

- Built a full-stack storefront with Next.js, TypeScript and Tailwind CSS v4, using Sanity CMS for content (GROQ queries, schema design, Typegen for typed data).
- Integrated Clerk for authentication and route protection via middleware.
- Developed reusable UI: product grid, client-side category filtering, responsive header, sidebar and mobile menu with shadcn/ui and Motion animations.

SKILLS

- Web: TypeScript, JavaScript, React, Next.js, Tailwind CSS, Sanity CMS, Clerk, shadcn/ui, Motion, HTML/CSS
- Programming & systems: C (pthreads, file I/O, signals), x86 assembly, SQL, Git, Linux, virtual machines
- Theory: algorithms and data structures, control systems, machine learning fundamentals

CERTIFICATIONS & LANGUAGES

- Web Developer certification
- ECDL (European Computer Driving Licence)
- Languages: Italian (native), English (C1), French (B2, CLA language test)
